

Polarization of Today's Politics

Liberals trust 78% of surveyed media outlets.

Conservatives only trust 33% of surveyed media outlets.

The farther on either side of the political spectrum you are, the more likely you are to post online.

Both sides of the political spectrum trust The Wall Street Journal as an accurate news source.

Liberals cited an average of 4 to 5 different news sources as their primary information sources.

Conservatives cited only using one news source, Fox News, 47% of the time.
